Hi!

Thank you for providing that great, comprehensive "hot topic" writeup. I built on it to create the attached draft "executive summary". Feel free to review/revise. We could use this internally as a "briefing tool" for our managers.

Hi Debra! I hadn't thought about that, but it sounds like a good idea. Here's a hot topic I sent in on Friday, but I didn't have time to put many new details in it. It might make sense to turn it into a short executive summary that includes some of the key findings, meeting highlights, and recommendations. If you happen to be up for tackling that, I'm happy to review it. I'll return to the office tomorrow. Katherine

TASC Program Support for Sun'aq Tribe of Kodiak

The EPA Headquarters Technical Assistance for Communities (TASC) Program project regarding the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) Kodiak Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) site has concluded. This project provided technical assistance to the Sun'aq Tribe and the Kodiak Alaskan Native Community in understanding the current state of environmental exposure and risk related to the site, and will be the first TASC Program project in Alaska. The contractor's (SKEO Solutions) activities included: independently reviewing data and reports related to contamination at three solid waste management units at the site; working with the Sun'aq Tribe of Kodiak to identify subsistence activities that could be impacted by contamination in Inner Women's Bay; preparing two "culturally appropriate" fact sheets summarizing the available data and implications for tribal fish consumption; and holding one community meeting in August 2012 to discuss the findings and answer questions. Debra Sherbina (R10 Community Involvement Coordinator), Jan Palumbo (R10 USCG Kodiak RCRA site Project Lead), and Katherine Brown (R10 Southcentral Alaska Tribal Coordinator) provided technical assistance to the contractor.

Hi Rick and Katherine,

Please find attached the final drafts of the Kodiak Meeting Summary and Subsistence Activities Report. The Meeting Summary will also be sent to those who attended the meeting and provided an email address. I will send copies of the Subsistence Activities report to those who were interviewed as well.

Our colleague from Skeo, Eric Marsh, will soon be following up with you to evaluate our performance on this project. We seek feedback on all our TASC projects in order to help improve our services to communities. Please let me know if you have any comments or questions in the meantime. Thank you both for all of your work on this project, it was a pleasure working with you and hope this finds you both well.

Best,
Blair
